

Linda Maynard

Speaker Bio

Shorter Version:

Linda is a devoted wife, mother, and faith-driven speaker whose life centers on serving Jesus Christ and encouraging others through His love. A former public relations and fundraising professional, she now pours her heart into family, ministry, and writing about the hope found in Christ. Her life-changing mission work in Mozambique led her to join a group of women in cofounding an outreach ministry serving women locally and globally who face physical, mental, and spiritual oppression. Through her words and experiences, Linda seeks to inspire others to walk in faith, purpose, and the transforming power of God's love.

Longer Version:

Linda is a devoted wife of nearly 40 years and a grateful mother who has dedicated much of her life to her family and faith. After a career in public relations and fundraising, she felt called to invest more deeply in her home and in serving others.

Her faith journey, marked by both profound joy and deep loss—including the passing of her son in 2021—has shaped her passion for sharing hope in all circumstances. Linda has participated in international mission work in Mozambique and has mentored middle and high school students, helping guide the next generation in faith.

She also helped co-found a women's outreach ministry that currently supports and uplifts women locally in Akron, Ohio, and has also helped women globally, offering physical, emotional, and spiritual encouragement.

A lifelong writer, Linda finds her greatest joy in sharing messages of faith, resilience, and the enduring hope found in Jesus Christ.

Sue Lindsey

Speaker Bio

Shorter Version:

Sue Lindsey is passionate about knowing Jesus and helping others discover a genuine relationship with Him. She creates space for honest, truth-filled conversations where people feel seen, known, and valued.

Sue and her husband, Doug, recently celebrated 30 years of marriage and are enjoying life as empty nesters. Together, they share a blended family of five adult children and a growing number of grandchildren.

For more than two decades, Sue has discipled students and women, offering encouragement and guidance. With a background in leadership and event planning, she helps women know Jesus more deeply, walk in truth, and live with purpose.

Longer Version:

Sue Lindsey is passionate about knowing Jesus and helping others discover a genuine relationship with Him. She has a natural way of making people feel seen, known, and valued, creating space for honest truth-filled conversation—whether around a table, on a walk, or over coffee.

Sue and her husband, Doug, recently celebrated 30 years of marriage and are embracing life as empty nesters. Together, they've built a blended family of five adult children and a growing number of grandchildren. God has brought them through both deep love and loss, shaping Sue's compassion and perspective.

For more than two decades, Sue has discipled students and women, offering encouragement and guidance. With a background in leadership and event planning, she brings both genuine care and intention to helping women to know Jesus more intimately, walk in truth, and live with purpose.
